SelfAssessment Examples Key Areas to Focus On

1 Product Knowledge Example Our team demonstrated a strong understanding of the core features of the 5 software but lacked details on the advanced functionalities A thorough product training session focused on advanced features for senior members will address this

Actionable Advice Create a detailed product knowledge base conduct regular product training sessions and assign specific team members to become experts in different functionalities

2 Presentation Structure and Delivery Example While our presentation structure was logical our delivery felt rushed We observed that the pacing of the demonstration needed adjustment particularly during complex demos

Actionable Advice Practice your presentation multiple times using a timer to ensure you stay within the allotted timeframe Use clear visual aids to support your points and anticipate potential questions

3 Addressing Objections and Handling QA Example

Our team struggled to address concerns about the pricing model during the QA session. We frequently provided incomplete responses which led to further questions and skepticism.

Actionable Advice: Anticipate potential objections and develop preemptive responses. Provide detailed, well-researched answers to common questions. Establish a clear protocol for answering unexpected questions.

4 Target Audience Alignment Example

Our AcqDemo was focused on technical aspects, but the client's needs were more aligned with ease of use and integration. We failed to tailor the demonstration to their specific business requirements.

Actionable Advice: Thoroughly research the target client's needs and pain points before the demonstration. Customize the presentation to showcase how your solution directly addresses those issues.
