an empirical study was undertaken a to examine the characteristics influencing factors and effectiveness of a distinctive chinese management model adopted by the newly founded private enterprises in mainland china as well as b to test the fit notion in contingency theory the study was based on a random sample of 124 standardized personal interviews with ceos of chinese industrial and service companies in beijing and shanghai the standardized questionnaire mainly contained the aston structure scales pugh and hickson 1976 and khandwalla s 1977 management schedules besides three case examples were studied including one state owned bank and two private enterprises using amos structural equation modeling size mass technology and uncertainty as well as ceo need for achievement environmental constraints and selected chinese characteristics were specified as influencing factors of bureaucracy and managerial practices which included strategic orientation leadership style decision making communication and subcontracting another model analyzed the influence of various key success factors on organizational effectiveness the findings provided support for the re adoption of a distinctive chinese management model in private companies characterized by autocratic leadership low formalization chinese entrepreneurship and network based webs private enterprises also tended to readopt and emphasize traditional chinese family related values the distinctiveness of this model was ceteris paribus due to this emphasis on familism which had a direct impact on organizational design and an indirect influence through its negative association with company size which in turn significantly covaried with organizational design this family based ownership model was positively associated with organizational effectiveness as regards contingency theory the traditional fit hypotheses could not be rejected in addition less effective companies were not necessarily in misfit appropriate structure together with an optimizing planning style and firm age were positively associated with performance managerial recommendations were codified in a china c strategy framework for high effectiveness this is a new overview of the strategy field with internationally renowned contributors summarizing the latest directions and developments in strategic management theory in the context of their theoretical roots in economics organization theory and systems theory the contributors outline the most promising new directions on the basis of a systemic treatment of paradigms or schools of thought in strategy redrawing firm boundaries developing dynamic capabilities and discovering viable strategy configurations the volume will be an invaluable companion to advanced courses in strategy and management used as a reader alongside case material and field studies as well as providing a summary and evaluation of the different this book is the initial volume coming out of the excellence project a comprehensive research effort commissioned by the iabc international association of business communicators research foundation the purpose of this project was to answer two fundamental questions about public relations what are the characteristics of an excellent communication department how does excellent public relations make an organization more effective and how much is that contribution worth economically the research team began its work with a thorough review of the literature in public relations and related disciplines relevant to these questions what started as a literature review however has ended in a general theory of public relations one that integrates most of the wide range of ideas about and practices of communication management in organizations originally published in 1981 and revised in 1983 controlled drinking was the first scholarly review of the literature on a controversial but increasingly practiced approach to the treatment of alcoholism nick heather and ian robertson analyse all the pertinent questions that controlled drinking raises starting with the need to examine the disease conception of alcoholism and total abstinence treatment they look at the evidence indicating that some people previously diagnosed as alcoholics are able to return to normal controlled patterns of drinking and discuss therapies where controlled drinking is the treatment goal fully reviewing the evidence for their success and failure concluding with a discussion of the theoretical and policy implications of controlled drinking the authors recommend that the disease view of alcoholism be finally abandoned for the revised paperback edition as well as correcting and updating the text and references the authors included an important postscript on the charges of falsification of evidence and their subsequent refutation which made up the sobell affair the wealth of other material presented in controlled drinking supports the authors conclusions even if the sobells work were ignored however this revised edition was made more useful for student and professional readers by the postscript s discussion of the controversy surrounding the most widely known and quoted controlled drinking trial at the time this book explores how enterprises adapt to challenges in their business environments it focuses on the critical elements within organisations that every executive must address in order to remain competitive it takes a pluralist approach in trying to broaden our knowledge on organisational adaptations it also offers an exploratory delve into existing literature of organisational study this is biased for content context and process framework and processual analytic approach in order to identify determine understand the intricacies of adaptations going on in various business organisations the book also includes a case study of how kodak and fujifilm responded to digitalisation of photographic film industry which is an example of major adaptation change many global brands are often contending with similar issues and real life challenges simply put today s business environment demands a new way of doing business that challenges brand s existing core business philosophy organisations are individual entities in their own rights businesses have devised ways of surviving their environments they do this by downsizing merger and acquisition business ecosystems other forms of collaborations and strategic alliances while this is true current research works into generic predictors and or concepts that enhance the transformation process are scarce it is particularly important to align the theories and concepts of organisational adaptations with realities in the business environment this book delves deep and explains adaptations in organisations but also offers insight for how executives can adapt and thrive in their dynamic business environments
