The introduction of the Virgin Mary to the native peoples of Mexico is often closely associated with Our Lady of Guadalupe the principal Mexican Marian devotion historical evidence indicates that the Mexican shrine was not established until the 1560s the legend was virtually unknown until its initial publication in Spanish in 1648 and in Nahuatl the following year and native people did not participate in the devotion to any extensive degree until after the mid-seventeenth century how then was devotion to the Virgin actually introduced to Nahuas during the first decades of Christian evangelization this book addresses this question through the presentation of Nahuatl language devotional texts relating to Mary texts through which Nahuas learned about the Virgin and expressed their own developing devotion to her the wide range of Nahuatl literature on the Virgin shows that Nahuas were introduced to and to varying degrees participated in the full-blown medieval and Renaissance devotion to Mary adapted into their own language native scholars participated in the composition of much of this material Nahuatl text and English translation are presented in parallel columns each text is preceded by introductory commentary that explicates the European background of the material and its new meanings and uses in the Mexican context

When President Benito Juárez died unexpectedly of a heart attack in 1872 the Mexican government declared a seven-day period of mourning nearly the entire population of Mexico City filed past Juárez's body as it lay in state in the National Palace over 100,000 people watched the magnificent procession of his hearse and countless mourners vied for position to listen to his eulogies Juárez's was the last state funeral for a sitting president in Republican Mexico and the public response proved the existence of a Mexican national community it also gave birth to the cultural politics and mythical discourse of the Porfirian regime that would overthrow Juárez's successor in 1876 in 1902 Mexican journalist congressman and intellectual Justo Sierra asserted that Mexico gained both national pride and its international personality during the long reign of Porfirio Díaz Matthew Esposito argues that much of this identity stemmed from Díaz's reliance on memorialism over the course of thirty-five years the Porfirian state constructed dozens of national monuments performed countless commemorations and held 110 state funerals while most historians have argued that Díaz's reign owed its longevity to extralegal activities and personal appeals to loyalty Esposito examines Díaz's successful manipulation of cults of the dead hero cults and national memory to shape the perception of his leadership
